

Is Every Religion Valid, or Which Is the True Religion?

Sixbert SANGWA • August 10, 2024

In our pluralistic society, the question of whether all religions are valid or which is the true religion is more pressing than ever. With the rise of interfaith dialogue, ecumenism, and the increasing call for tolerance and acceptance of all belief systems, it's vital to approach this subject with both humility and clarity. Today's erroneous claim is that all religions lead to heaven, albeit through different methods. This pretense suggests that all beliefs can lead to heaven as long as you practice what you believe. As Christians, we believe that the Bible is the inspired Word of God (2 Timothy 3:16) and it provides us with the answers to these crucial questions.

The Biblical Foundation: Christianity as the True Religion

According to Scripture, Christianity is the only true religion ordained by God. Jesus Christ, the cornerstone of the Christian faith, declared, "I am the way, the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through Me" (John 14:6). This statement is exclusive and definitive; it leaves no room for the validity of other religions. Jesus did not present Himself as one of many ways to God, but as the only way.

The Apostle Paul reinforces this in 1 Timothy 2:5, where he writes, "For there is one God and one mediator between God and mankind, the man Christ Jesus." This exclusivity is a cornerstone of Christian doctrine, affirming that salvation and reconciliation with God are only possible through Jesus Christ. Any belief system that deviates from this truth is a counterfeit, no matter how sincerely it is practiced.

A Brief History of Religion and the Rise of Counterfeits

To understand why Christianity stands alone as the true faith, it is essential to explore the origins of religion and how various belief systems have developed over time.

- Ancient Paganism: In the earliest civilizations, people worshiped a multitude of gods, each representing different aspects of nature or human life. These religions were polytheistic and often involved rituals and sacrifices meant to appease capricious deities. The Bible records early instances of such idolatry, most notably in the story of the Tower of Babel (Genesis 11:1-9), where humanity's attempt to build a tower to heaven symbolized their rebellion against God's authority.
- Judaism: God revealed Himself uniquely to Abraham and established a covenant with him, forming the foundation of Judaism. The Old Testament chronicles God's relationship with the Israelites, His chosen people, whom He set apart to be a light to the nations (Isaiah 42:6). However, despite prophecies about the coming Messiah, many Jews rejected Jesus as the Messiah. One significant story that highlights this rejection involves Jewish leaders who suppressed the account of Jesus' resurrection by bribing the soldiers [who guarded the tomb] to lie, instructing them to say that Jesus' disciples had stolen His body while they were asleep (Matthew 28:12-15). This act of bribery and deception demonstrates a crucial point: Judaism is incomplete and not the true path to salvation. Salvation and reconciliation with God are only possible through Jesus Christ, making any belief system that denies Him as the Messiah, including Judaism, a deviation from the true faith.
- Christianity: With the coming of Jesus Christ, the promise of salvation through faith was extended to all nations. Christianity, born from the fulfillment of the Old Testament prophecies, spread rapidly despite persecution. It is based on the belief in one God, who exists in three persons—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. The resurrection of Jesus Christ is the pivotal event that sets Christianity apart from all other religions.
- Islam and Other Religions: Islam arose centuries after Christianity, claiming new revelations supposedly from God through the Prophet Muhammad. However, these revelations, compiled in the Quran, often contradict the Bible. Christians view this as an attack on their faith, echoing Paul's warning in Galatians 1:8 against preaching a different gospel. Scripture presents itself as complete and condemns anyone adding to or removing from its teachings, as stated in Revelation 22:18-19. This underscores the fact that new revelations, such as those claimed by Islam, are heretical distortions of Christianity's true message. Islam, along with other religions like Buddhism and Hinduism, denies the exclusive claims of Jesus Christ and presents alternative paths to spirituality and salvation. This challenges the Christian belief in Jesus as the only way to God, as declared in John 14:6, "I am the way, the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through Me." In summary, the rise of Islam is seen as a challenge to the completeness and authenticity of Christianity, directly contradicting the Bible's teachings and its warnings against altering God's Word.

The Satanic Influence Behind False Religions

The Bible makes it clear that Satan is a deceiver and the father of lies (John 8:44). His primary strategy has always been to counterfeit the truth of God to lead people astray. Just as in the Garden of Eden, where he twisted God's word to deceive Eve (Genesis 3:1-5), Satan continues to create false religions that seem righteous but ultimately deny the truth of Christ.

Paul explicitly warned that "Satan himself masquerades as an angel of light" (2 Corinthians 11:14), and so do his followers. Many religions may appear to promote peace, morality, and spirituality, but if they deny the divinity and the redemptive work of Christ, they are not from God. The rise of these counterfeit religions is a direct attack on Christianity, aimed at confusing humanity and pulling them away from the truth.

The End-Time Deception and the Antichrist

As we approach the end of the age, the Bible warns of an increase in false prophets, deception, and the ultimate emergence of the Antichrist. Jesus Himself cautioned, "For false messiahs and false prophets will appear and perform great signs and wonders to deceive, if possible, even the elect" (Matthew 24:24). The Antichrist, who will arise in the last days, will seek to unite all religions under a single, false system of worship. This movement toward a one-world religion is already underway, masked under terms like interfaith dialogue, fraternity, and ecumenism. These efforts may appear noble, promoting peace and unity, but they are laying the groundwork for the Antichrist's global reign. According to Revelation 13:7-8, the Antichrist will exercise authority over "every tribe, people, language and nation," and all who dwell on earth will worship him, except those whose names are written in the Lamb's book of life.

The push for a one-world religion is an attempt to dilute the exclusive truth of Christianity and replace it with a syncretic system that denies Christ's lordship. The ultimate goal of the Antichrist is to deceive humanity into worshipping him rather than the true God.

Conclusion

In conclusion, while the world may promote the idea that all religions are equally valid, the Bible clearly teaches that there is only one true faith—Christianity. Jesus Christ is the only way to salvation, and any other path is a deception. As we witness the increasing push toward religious unity under the guise of interfaith cooperation, it is crucial to remain vigilant and rooted in the truth of Scripture.

The end-time state of religion, marked by the rise of the Antichrist, will challenge the faith of many. Yet, Jesus warned that the path to life is narrow and difficult (Matthew 7:13-14), and few will find it. As Christians, we must hold fast to the truth of the Gospel and be prepared to stand firm in our faith, even as the world around us falls into deception.

In today's society, there are dangerous restrictions on commenting on other people's faith or religion, often under the guise of promoting tolerance and preventing hate speech. While these restrictions aim to reduce conflict, they also serve to prevent people from knowing the truth. Christians are increasingly finding it difficult to share their beliefs openly without facing backlash or accusations of intolerance. This creates an environment where the exclusive claims of Christianity are marginalized, making it even more critical for believers to speak the truth in love and stand firm in their faith.

Let us, therefore, heed the words of Jude 1:3: "Contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints." The times are perilous, but our hope is secure in Christ, the only true and living way to the Father.
